

We often wonder what some women would do if they were deaf and dumb. The location, size and ventilation of the bed-room is of far greater importance than of any other room.

Ludwig Strub of Brunswick has let the contract for a four-room cottage residence in that city to Jasper Zimmerman.

Attorney C. B. Adams of Mendon enlisted in the company of Uncle Sam's volunteers that was raised at Carrollton last week. The company was expected to report at Jefferson barracks, near St. Louis, the first of this week.

Sunday, May 29th, will be fittingly observed by the G. A. R. post at Indian Grove, on which occasion "a patriotic" sermon will be delivered by Rev. G. W. Norris of Mendon. Decoration day will be celebrated by the same post, Monday, May 30th.

According to the Cunningham correspondent of the Sumner Star, Cunningham has a young lady who kills two birds with one stone, as it were, by stirring mush with a broom-handle and brushing cobwebs from the ceiling with the other end of the broom at the same time.

Ladies, you will find all of the latest novelties in dressgoods at Rosenstein's. He carries the most complete line between St. Louis and Kansas City.

Richard Ashby, Jr., a former Brunswicker, but who has been for some time an employee of the Armour packing house in Kansas City, is now a member of company H, Third Missouri infantry, which reported for duty at Jefferson barracks, near St. Louis, last Friday.

Listen to the "diversified manner" in which the Republican speaks of the colored population of Brunswick: "About a dozen of Brunswick's colored citizens left, Saturday, for Wright City to work on the Wabash ballast system. There are a dozen more here of the same color who will, in the near future, leave for Jefferson City and do time for the state."

An editor in a Southwest Missouri town visited the school-ma'am and found her "hot stuff." Here's what he swears to: "She is the pride of the town, the star of invention and a jewel of brilliancy. She drew a picture of an iceberg on the blackboard. It was so natural that the thermometer froze up solid. With rare presence of mind she seized a crayon and drew a fire-place on the opposite wall. The prompt action saved the school, but nearly all the children caught a severe cold from the sudden change."

The newspaper field is a wide one and full of roses and thorns. When you roast the ungodly the preacher smiles, and when you roast the preacher the ungodly smile. If you roast the saloon man the teetotaler smiles; when you roast the teetotaler the saloon man sets 'em up. If you swear you are a wicked man, and if you pray you are a hypocrite; if you have an opinion you get cussed, and if you don't you are a nonentity. It's a case of be damned if he does and be damned if he don't.

Over in Isadora neighborhood an old lady went out the other day to gather her eggs, and found one bearing the cabalistic letters, "G. S. H." The event was noised among the neighbors and it created a great deal of excitement. All the women in the neighborhood assembled at the house of the lady who found the egg and held consultation. It was unanimously agreed that the letters were prophetic of some kind, but what? was the question. One old lady suggested "Give Sinners Help," another "God Sends Help," and another "God Saves Heathens," but it was finally agreed that they meant "Give Spain H—!"

Headache, dizziness, nausea, stomachache, weakness, flatulence, constipation, loss of appetite, irritability, etc. These are a few of the symptoms caused by indigestive poisons cured by Shaker Digestive Cordial. While we are discussing the movements of the Oregon, and her good qualities as a warship, says the Brunswick, it will be a matter of interest and pride to us to remember that one of our own boys from this county is one of her crew. Young Sublett, son of Thomas Sublett of near Mendon, is that young man. He left a few weeks ago and went to San Francisco, where he enlisted as a volunteer in the navy. He was assigned to a place on the Oregon, and will no doubt be one of the famous crew that will show the Spanish fleet just how hard American guns can shoot. If he has to any degree inherited the fighting qualities of his father he will not be found wanting, and the Spaniard that captures him, if it should ever come to that, will do so after he becomes a corpse. Tom Sublett was one of Quantrell's men in the late civil strife, and any one of them was equal to a dozen ordinary soldiers.

And it came to pass that after he had advertised his goods there came unto him great multitudes from all the region round about and did buy of him. And when his competitors saw it they marveled among themselves, saying: "How be it that this man is busy while we loaf about our doors?" And he spake unto them, saying: "Verily, verily, I say unto you in this fast age of push and rustle it is easier for a camel to enter the eye of a needle than for a man to flourish without advertising."

R. Hiter Beazley, who was appointed city attorney by Mayor Heisel last Monday, served in a similar capacity sixteen years ago. Mr. Beazley, says the Brunswick News, has devoted his time and attention to other business than the practice of law for so many years past that many of his friends had forgotten that he was licensed as an attorney in 1881.

An Iowa editor rises to remark: When a man gets so lazy that starvation itself won't drive him to work, you will usually find him running for office on a labor reform ticket.

Pratt & Co. of Iowa, who bought corn so extensively in this county a year ago last fall and cribbed it along the railroad track, are now having it shelled and shipping it to market, there having been a big advance in the price of corn during the past few weeks.

No woman who marries an old soldier after July 1st will be entitled to a pension if he dies. The old soldier with a comfortable pension has furnished inducement for many designing women to wed, especially as his death does not stop the pension. But it will be changed next year, and the veteran who gets married after that time will have the satisfaction of knowing he furnished all the attraction himself.

The newspaper man is the public slave. He helps to make his neighbors rich and dies poor. He helps to elect candidates to fat salaries, gets a little patronage at starvation prices and waits until doomsday for his money. He builds up churches, schools and other public institutions and contributes his mite to their support, and when they have job work and advertising to give they take it somewhere else or ask for bids from those who never aided them, against those who did. He credits a man two years for a paper and when he sends in the bill the man gets mad and quits. That's why all newspaper men go to heaven, and why so many other sorts miss connection with the "Gospel Train."

"Yes," said the old reporter as he swallowed a glass of raw whiskey, "yes my boy, I firmly believe that a man has it in his power to make of himself anything that he wills. If a young man starts out in life with the fixed and steady purpose of mind and heart that he will make of himself the greatest lawyer, the greatest poet, the greatest scientist the world ever knew, and if he keeps that aim in mind all his life, his ambition will be fulfilled. Any man has it in him to make of himself something great. It all depends upon a man's will power, and with plenty of that he can make his earthly habitations do anything. I and my body are two different things. I, ego, am a living spirit, and a soul some people call it. I exist within my body, just as some people live in a house, or as a captain lives in a ship. That captain with the aid of fair weather, can direct the course of his ship at will. I can direct my body, with the aid of health, the fair weather of life, to the port of success. I am the master of my fate. Remember that, my boy. And remember another thing; every drink you take, exhausts your will power, weakens your ego. A drunken captain runs his ship on the shoals, where the tides of adversity washes over it and leaves it a wreck for the warning of other mariners. Don't let me see you in a saloon again." And the young man departed. That little talk did him more good than a dozen sermons.

Miss Genevieve Liggett of Kansas City, who will be pleasantly remembered in Keytesville as having visited her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Carson of this place, and also as having taken part in an elocutionary contest given by the Christian church in Keytesville something over a year ago, will take a prominent part in the comedy drama entitled the "Ticket-of-Leave Man," which will be put on the boards at the Coates opera house in Kansas City, Tuesday evening, May 24th.

Perhaps one of the most disappointed outfits in the county during the past week is the force on the Salisbury Democrat. They went to press a day earlier than usual last week in order to attend Lemen Bros' circus on Thursday, but "owing to the inclemency of the weather" the show failed to pitch its tent. And this why the Democrat force is so sad.

A Mighty Neat Trick.
On the California limited yesterday a man from the East, who thought he was better than an F. F. V. was aboard, and everything he did was done better than anyone else could do it, so he thought.

While at breakfast in the dining car one morning he was seated with three other gentlemen with whom he had become acquainted during the trip. The four gentlemen ordered, among other things, a soft boiled egg.

The gentleman who was superior to the rest ordered his to be brought in without being broken. When they were brought in he said:

"Gentlemen, I have in my hand a soft boiled," and he held up the egg where everyone could see it, "you know it is a very delicate matter to break a soft boiled egg without soiling one's hands or the tablecloth."

The rest of the party assented. "I will now show you how easy it is to do when one knows how." He glanced around to see if all were looking. Each one was paying close attention, so he continued: "You take the egg like this," as he struck the shell with his knife and neatly made a small break. "Then you take the egg in both hands like this and break it in two like—"

He evidently did not mean to do so, but the egg broke suddenly and flew all over the tablecloth, on the man's clothes and he dropped one-half onto the floor while the other piece went onto his lap.

Just then the waiter, who had not heard the conversation, came up and said:

"That's all right, colonel, it er a mighty neat trick to break an egg, sar." The rest of the gentlemen at the table smiled.—Topeka State Journal.
